The Jets selected defenseman Bryan Marchment in the first round of the 1987 Entry Draft and after three seasons in the Jets' organization, the Jets traded him to the Chicago Blackhawks in the summer of 1991. Over the course of the next 14 seasons, Marchment became a feared hitter and was known as one of the dirtiest players in the game. He last saw action in 2005-2006 as a member of the Calgary Flames, his ninth and final NHL team.
